

ANU Scuba Club

Dive Now, Study Later

You're in Canberra - where do you dive?

The club travels to many dive sites along the south coast found through the 53 years of its operation. With two boats, the club coordinates a mixture of shore and boat dives and has a variety of dives for all levels. There is a trip every second or third weekend over summer, less regularly over winter.

How do I sign up?

Before you join the club you will need to have your open water scuba certification. If you are keen to join but are unsure how to, check out the 'learn to dive' section of the website. Club sign up forms are via the ANU Sport website, follow the link under general information. Annual membership is $50 for ANU students and $195 for others (includes their ANU Sport membership).

I don't have any of my own gear.

The club hires out gear to students for free, and for a small fee for other members. You will need to bring your own wetsuit, mask, fins and snorkel, but the club has a stock of tanks, weight belts, BCDs and regulators.

How much does it cost?

The club is significantly cheaper than commercial diving, and there is cheap gear hire (free for students on club trips), and significantly reduced dive costs for students. This happens through all club members helping out on trips. Check out the pricing section of the website for a more in-depth breakdown.
